Pocketing the Sugar Popular English Pursuit

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Diners-out in London are regularly engaged just now in a practice which popularly is known as "pocketing the sugar."

The idea is to lay up a supply of sweetening for a day when it may be harder to obtain, or, on the part of non-sugar eating individuals, for friends who like more than they are allowed. The custom is practiced all over the city and in all classes of places where tea and food are served.

German submarines lately seem to have been especially active against ships that happened to be carrying sugar, with the result that, while there is enough to go around, the supplies for the distant future are none too large. Tea and coffee are served with just the allowed weight of sugar usually in halves or thirds of lumps. It is these pieces of lumps that most often are seen disappearing into the gold, silver and leather handbags of the women and the waistcoat pockets of the men.

Sugar served for berries or other food is hard to pocket. Nearly always it is of the crude variety, and very sticky; but collectors of sugar even carry off this kind with them, having a convenient envelope or a little cloth bag for it.

Lump sugar is much more popular, however, and in the mesh bags of women in London's streets and hotels the white cubes, or pieces of them, can be seen mingling with keys, treasury notes, odd change, powder puffs and other things.

A new arrival in London who does not take sugar in his or her tea is sure quickly to be asked to "save up" for some friend with a so-called sweet tooth.

German's Foiled By Hugh Graig of Fanning Island

LONDON, Aug. 14.—How the cable staff at Fanning Island patched up the cable which was cut by the men of the German cruiser Nurnberg is told in the "Zodiac," the organ of the Eastern and Associated Telegraph company, which says:

"The resources of a coral island in the Pacific are naturally slight, and the Germans had thought to clinch the matter by towing the severed ends of the cable far apart. But they reckoned without their hosts. Hugh Graig, a member of the Fanning Island staff, although entirely lacking in experience in handling or repairing cables, undertook the temporary repair of the Fanning-Suva cable.

"As there was no grapnel, he used an ordinary pickaxe. By this means and also by diving and working under the sea to secure the cable ends with ropes, he managed to raise them to the surface. But they were still far apart, there was no possibility of bringing them together, and no spare cable was available to fill the gap.

He improvised rafts made with planks and ordinary barrels, and with the cable ends securely fastened to these made a connection between them with ordinary covered wire. It was across these rafts that Fanning spoke again to Suva, transmitting the urgently awaited information of her requirements for complete repairs.

Suffrage Orator as Circus Card

Mrs. Jeannette B. Greve of Chattanooga has found a new way to spread the doctrine of woman suffrage. W. B. Sparks, owner of the Sparks circus, which has recently played in Maine, heard her speak once outside the circus tent to the crowd buying tickets. He invited her inside and gave her ten minutes, during which she proved as great an attraction for the audience as some of the regular stunts on the program.

NO DELEGATES TO SOCIALIST MEET

GREAT BRITAIN, FRANCE AND ITALY DECIDE NOT TO SEND DELEGATES TO THE STOCK-
HOLM CONFERENCE

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Andrew Bonar Law has announced to the commons that the government has decided not to permit British delegates to attend the international socialist conference at Stockholm.

France and Italy have made the same decision. It is expected that Arthur Henderson, the labor leader, who resigned Saturday, will make a statement regarding communications between England and Russia pertaining to the conference.

The Daily News, a supporter of Henderson, says that a crisis is approaching in the British cabinet, and suggests the question of a change of government be put up to the people.

NATIONAL DEFENSE

TO ALL AMERICAN CITIZENS:

"The supreme test of the nation has come. We must all speak, act, and serve together."
—From the President's Proclamation

War is here but it finds us well prepared. Our national wealth has now exceeded the sum of Two Hundred and Twenty Billion Dollars. Our gold supply totals Three Billion Dollars. Valorous Americans are responding nobly to the call for service. Industry is taking on an increased activity. Partisanship has disappeared. Financially, physically, industrially and mentally, we stand united. Our officers urge all American citizens to unreservedly evidence their patriotism and recognize cooperation as the most constructive of all forces in speeding peace based upon liberty and justice for all men.
